FORMAT

The ICMA Fixed Income Certificate is available to study in two formats:

- Classroom-based: This option is a five day training programme taking place throughout the year in destinations across Europe. The training takes place from Monday to Friday and includes regular exercises and revision sessions. The training concludes with the FIC examination on Friday afternoon.
- Online: This option allows total flexibility as candidates work at their own pace (subject to a six month exam deadline), in their own time and location; there is no need to take time off work or spend time away from home.

Candidates who choose the classroom-based training receive access to the FIC Online Campus for course preparation. It is essential that candidates read through the material available to prepare themselves for the intensive training they will receive.

Candidates who choose to study via the online platform will receive ongoing support, including the ability to speak directly with an expert e-tutor and the ability to discuss course topics with fellow candidates.

TARGET AUDIENCE

The programme is primarily intended for those working in client or market facing positions in fixed income within a bank or fund management company, although it has become increasingly popular with middle office and operations managers who require greater product and market knowledge. Other candidate profiles include those working for financial IT service companies, exchanges and central securities depositories.

PROGRAMME RECOGNITION

The FIC is included on the UK's Financial Skills Partnership (FSP) qualifications list for 'Advising on securities in the wholesale market place' and 'Advising on derivatives in the wholesale market place'.

As a result of the continuing high standard of content within our training, candidates who study ICMA Executive Education qualifications will receive a designated number of credit hours which can be used towards study with the CFA.

ICMA Executive Education is able to provide any of its public qualifications and specialist programmes on an in-house basis.
